

MY SECRET PLACE

photo and poem by Mercy Idindili

HAIM in my ears
Sunsets on my mind

With every step, I take it all in How marvelous you are

Black boots on my feet
It's an uphill climb

I can't help but stop and look around
How marvelous you are

Cold and covered in snow,
But that won't stop me

I breathe in your cold air
How marvelous you are

A familiar scene
Beauty sinking into madness

I longed for these days
How marvelous you are

Mercy Idindili is a junior in Ezra Stiles College and can be reached at mercy.idindili@yale.edu.