“So much was going on in the world, yet we were stuck inside our homes, like a nameless figure, a shadow even, in the midst of problems, structures, and chaos that are greater than us. Still, we adapted to the darkness of our shadows and kept observing, until we put ourselves out there again. Terrified but ready.”