

EDITORS IN CHIEF

Phoebe Campbell
Nicole Zhen

CHAIR

Sarah McKinnis

MANAGING EDITORS

Sean Callahan
McKenna Christmas
Nick McGowan
Clare Morneau
Mao Shiotsu
Sasha Thomas

CHIEF ONLINE EDITOR

Yilin Chen

ONLINE EDITORS

Martina Amate
Zelunjo Chumajaegbu
Matt Kirschner
Victory Lee
Byron Ma
Razel Suansing
Miguel Von Fedak

COPY EDITORS

Yasmeen Abed
Mahesh Agarwal
Claire Donnellan
Sandhya Kumar
Luna Li

BUSINESS DIRECTOR

Iyala Alai

CREATIVE DIRECTOR

Sidney Hirschman

DESIGN EDITORS

Ellie Gabriel
Hannah Landau
Karen Lu
Emma Sargent

FIND US ONLINE

globalist.yale.edu
@yaleglobalist
tyglobalist@gmail.com

IN THIS ISSUE:

RE

SPRING/SUMMER 2021
VOLUME 21 | ISSUE 3

4

Pandemic Perceptions: Revisiting COVID-19 in Africa

by Dami Adekeye

8

Tokyo 2020: Reframing the Games

by Phoebe Campbell

12

RESEARCH

Reopening and Reimagining Africa: The Future of Foreign Aid and Development

by Namra Zulfiqar

Photo credits

Nairobi skyline: Karimi via Pexels

Children running: Brian Inganga via AP

Project Handclasp: Commander, U.S. Naval Forces via Flickr

Tokyo Sea Forest Waterway: Getty Images

17

THE GLOBALIST ALUMNI SERIES

Spotlight on Katharine Kendrick '09

by Emma Sargent

EDITOR'S NOTE

Dear Globalist readers,

After a hectic close to the academic year, we're delighted to present the final issue of the 2020-21 publication cycle, RE. Rather than selecting one specific word for the issue as the Globalist traditionally does, we have chosen to focus on the prefix 're'—in particular, the idea of reflecting, reimagining, and revisiting events of recent months.

Our writers tackled this unique prompt in a range of ways. Dami Adekeye '22 revisited the spread of COVID-19 in Africa and the perceptions of various outbreaks of disease on the continent in recent years. Phoebe Campbell '22 explored the rescheduling of the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games, speaking to six Yale rowers to understand the challenges and the sacrifices involved in targeting a postponed Games. Emma Sargent '22 interviewed an alumna of the Globalist, Katharine Kendrick '09, who reflected on her time with the magazine and how it has proved surprisingly formative in her career. Finally, in our Research section of this issue, Namra Zulfiqar '21 explored foreign aid and economic development in Africa.

We are very proud of this issue, and hope our readers will enjoy exploring each of the articles as much as we did. We look forward to sharing more articles with you this summer and in the coming semester.

Warmly,

Nicole, Phoebe & Sarah